Tour of the Marsh Botanical Gardens

Friday, April 28, 2023 - 11:00am to 12:00pm
New Haven , CT

Did you know that Yale has it's own botanical gardens? Marsh Botanical Gardens is a hidden gem located on Mansfield Street that offers support for researchers, faculty, and students at Yale – and it's beautiful! In celebration of Earth Day, join us for a 1 hour guided tour with Kunso Kim, their Associate Director, where we will tour the greenhouses and explore the diversity of tropical plants including the Economic Botany section, Carnivorous Plants, and Desert House. We will discuss morphology, adaption strategies, and how these plants are used in different cultures. Space is limited for this event due to capacity at Marsh, so you must register to attend. If registration reaches capacity, please register for the waitlist in case we have last minute cancellations.
