Uma's Afternoon: Guided Tour of the Yale University Art Gallery

Join OISS staff member, Uma Shankar, and Yale University Art Gallery staff for a one hour guided tour of the Yale University Art Gallery, the oldest University Art Museum in the Western Hemisphere, founded in 1832 when John Trumbull donated more than 100 of his paintings to Yale College. The Yale Art Gallery has since expanded to become a major art museum with holdings from virtually all national schools and important periods in the history of art. The Gallery has well over 200,000 objects but displays roughly 4000 at any given time. We will explore the Gallery’s collection and exhibitions on a guided tour led by teaching staff. The experience is discussion-based and encourages visitors to look closely, ask questions, and talk about what they see. The tour will be followed by a happy hour, in partnership with ANY (Asian Network at Yale). They have arranged light refreshments and discounted drinks at Zaroka Bar & Restaurant at 148 York St from 4:30-6:30pm. We hope you join us there! Note: Not suitable for children under the age of 12. The series is open to the Yale Community, and we encourage you to come with questions! You must RSVP in order to attend.
