Documents to Have On-Hand

With all of the COVID-19 related changes to both U.S. immigrations and the operation of U.S. universities, we want you to have all the documents that you may need in coming or returning to the U.S. When you arrive at the U.S. port of entry, the Customs and Border Protection (CBP) officer will certainly want to see the first three documents but may ask to see other documents on this list. The officer may also ask you to answer additional questions about your study plans. Documents #6-8 on this list relate to the current situation and may be helpful. Please review them.

Carry these documents with you - don't put them in your checked luggage

1. Valid Passport: must be valid at least 6 months into the future at the time of admission.

2. Valid U.S. Visa (Canadian citizens do not need a visa)

   If we sent you a new electronic I-20 this summer, please print that updated I-20 and carry that with the original that we issued you initially.

4. Receipt from paying the Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS) fee [1]: if you are an F or J visa holder.

5. Copy of your admissions letter and proof of funds: while you may not be asked for it, it is advisable for new students to carry these documents as well. Proof of funds can include the same documents you submitted to obtain your I-20 or DS-2019, such as bank statements and scholarship letters.

6. NEW: [2]: This letter, updated on October 30th and issued by OISS, explains that Yale is open and will be operating for full-time study this spring.

7. Travelers from Schengen Area, United Kingdom, and Ireland: print off this bulletin from the U.S. Customs and Border Protection [3] which notes that F-1 visa holders are able to travel.

8. Travelers from Canada: if you will be traveling over the land border, print off this page which clarifies "individuals traveling to attend educational institutions" are considered "essential travelers". [4]

Before you depart the customs area, look at your passport before you leave the immigration check point. Make sure you have the small ink entry stamp (see sample at right) with your visa classification and expiration date ("D/S" if you are F-1 or J-1) handwritten. If you do not have a stamp, or see a wrong visa classification written, request that the CBP officer give you a correct stamp. You may need to go to the Differed Inspection section of the airport.

As soon as you have access to a computer please look-up your I-94 record [5] to make sure it is accurate, and print, or save a copy on your device.

Secondary Inspection

Most Yale students and scholars will clear U.S. immigration after your documents are reviewed by a CBP officer. However, a few may be referred to another officer to verify your student status or for additional questioning. This is referred to as "secondary inspection [6]". Although a referral to secondary inspection can be intimidating and make your feel anxious, there is usually little cause for alarm. It can, however, it take you an hour or two to complete the inspections process.

If the CBP officer has questions that can be answered by OISS ask the officer if they would like to call OISS for confirmation. During office hours, you can call your adviser directly [7] or the general office number, (203) 432-2305. After hours call the Yale Police Department at (203) 432-4400 who will immediately call the OISS director or associate director.
