Transition from ISD to OISS Connect

OISS is transitioning to a new database system called OISS Connect after using ISD for almost a decade. We have been working with a focus group of host department administrators to test and develop the system. We will be making the transition in stages, inviting specific Yale Departments to use OISS Connect. In the mean time please continue to use ISD - you do not need to use the new system until you have received training and an invitation to register. During this transition process, should you have any questions about our database systems please contact Parker Emerson. [1]
