Policies & Laws

At Yale there are a number of university-wide policies and individual school policies that govern a range of academic activities and student, faculty and staff behaviors. A violation of University policies [1] can impact your immigration status.

In the U.S. there are different levels of laws [2], including federal, state, and local community laws which might differ depending on the jurisdiction. Violating a U.S. law can have different consequences for an international student than for your American friends and can negatively impact your U.S. immigration status.

While it is unlikely that you will encounter any legal difficulties, there are times in life when the unexpected happens. Knowledge can make all the difference, so it is important to be aware of the policies and laws that you are subject to.

Yale Policies

While you are at Yale, you will be expected to abide by University policies that may affect your academic activities.

[1]

U.S. Laws

While you're in the U.S., you are expected to follow laws and policies that govern a variety of daily life - make sure you know what they are!

[2]

Yale Policies

While you are at Yale, you will be expected to abide by University policies that may affect your academic activities.

[1]
U.S. Laws

While you're in the U.S., you are expected to follow laws and policies that govern a variety of daily life - make sure you know what they are!

[2]

Source URL: https://oiss.yale.edu/life-at-yale/practical-matters/policies-laws

Links: