If you're like us, you're missing strolls through the Yale University Art Gallery, concerts at Sprague Hall, and a visit with the dinosaurs at Peabody. Luckily, many of our favorite places on campus have made their resources available to us online! Each week we will feature a new online treasure that you can access to keep you connected to campus, and you can find past resources here [1].

This week we are featuring the [Yale's virtual campus tours][2]! These interactive campus tours put together by the admission's office take you through different parts of Yale's campus and are led virtually by a current Yale student. While you might have already visited these places in person, you can learn some new facts about Yale's campus, or see inside places that you might not have access to, like Yale's residential colleges. We certainly learned a few new things about the campus when watching these tours!
