Throughout the month of April, OISS is highlighting the incredible arts programming that's happening across the university. While our galleries and museums might remain closed, the virtual programming that is being offered is the next best thing!

This week we are highlighting the Yale University Art Gallery's Double Take program! Read the excerpt from their website below and register here to attend [1].

Double Take: Looking at Art with Gallery Guides
April 14, 12:30-1:30 PM
Join our undergraduate Gallery Guides in conversation as they bring two different perspectives to a single work of art from the Yale University Art Gallery's collection. In this Double Take, Sofia Ortega-Guerrero, ES '23, and Eliza Spinna, GH '23, address Ogawa Machiko’s Round Vessel with a Torn Mouth (2006). Generously sponsored by the John Walsh Lecture and Education Fund.

Closed captions will be available in English.
