Daily English Conversation Groups at OISS

Did you know that OISS offers daily English Conversation Groups [1]? These groups are open to all international students, scholars, and their family members who wish to gain further experience speaking conversational English. These popular volunteer-led groups provide an enjoyable, informal means for improving conversation skills and are also a good place for participants to meet new friends and explore topics in U.S. culture. While they are not formal classes, they are an excellent supplement to a course of study in English as a second language (ESL).

Join us for one or more of the groups, Monday through Friday, 12:30pm - 1:30pm, at the OISS, 421 Temple Street. Open to all with no registration required.
