Upcoming Events for Black History Month

February 3, 2022

In the U.S., February is Black History Month where we celebrate Black excellence, engage, learn, listen, and take action. Belonging At Yale [1] has compiled a list of events, books, films, courses, and organizations for you to engage with and learn about Black history, not just this month, but throughout the year!

The House has compiled a list of campus and local events [2] that are happening over the next few weeks, so read through their list and make a commitment to attend at least one event this year.
