Winter break is almost here and we've compiled a list of resources to help keep you connected and active during the break.

Getting in Touch with OISS

OISS will be closed along with the rest of the university starting on Wednesday, December 23rd and we will return to work on Monday, January 4th. If you have an urgent question that can't wait until January 4th, please email your adviser [1] with a copy to OISS Director, Ann Kuhlman [2].

Our last newsletter of the fall semester will be on December 10, but we will be back in your inbox if any urgent news drops during the break. We will resume our weekly newsletter in mid-January before the start of the spring semester.

Winter Break Activities & Resources

OISS has compiled a series of asynchronous programming filled with things to do, read, listen to, or watch that will help fill your days (and ours) until the next semester. You will find these on our Programs & Events [3] or Winter Break [4] pages. We hope something on this list will be of interest, including the ten hours of holiday music on the OISS Holiday Playlist!

We've also compiled a list of resources [4] to help get you through these long weeks ahead, including mental health... and wellness resources and tips to stay active while you’re at home. Most importantly, please follow the safety guidelines [5] offered by the university to keep yourself and others safe.

Enjoy the break and here's to a happier and healthier 2021!
