Yale's Office of Student Life and the Chaplain's Office have put together a new website to acknowledge those in the Yale family who have died from COVID-19 and other causes since March, and to provide a virtual space and time for contemplation and grieving.

The new Remembrances [1] website will include the name, photograph, and other basic information about a Yale staff or faculty member, student, or retiree who has died. It includes links to grief resources [2] and a Grieving Wall [3], a space for people to express feelings of loss about any person.

Finally, the entire Yale community is invited to participate in a moment of reflection on Thursdays at noon local time (wherever you are).
